

Celebrating pottery and potters for 21 years . . .

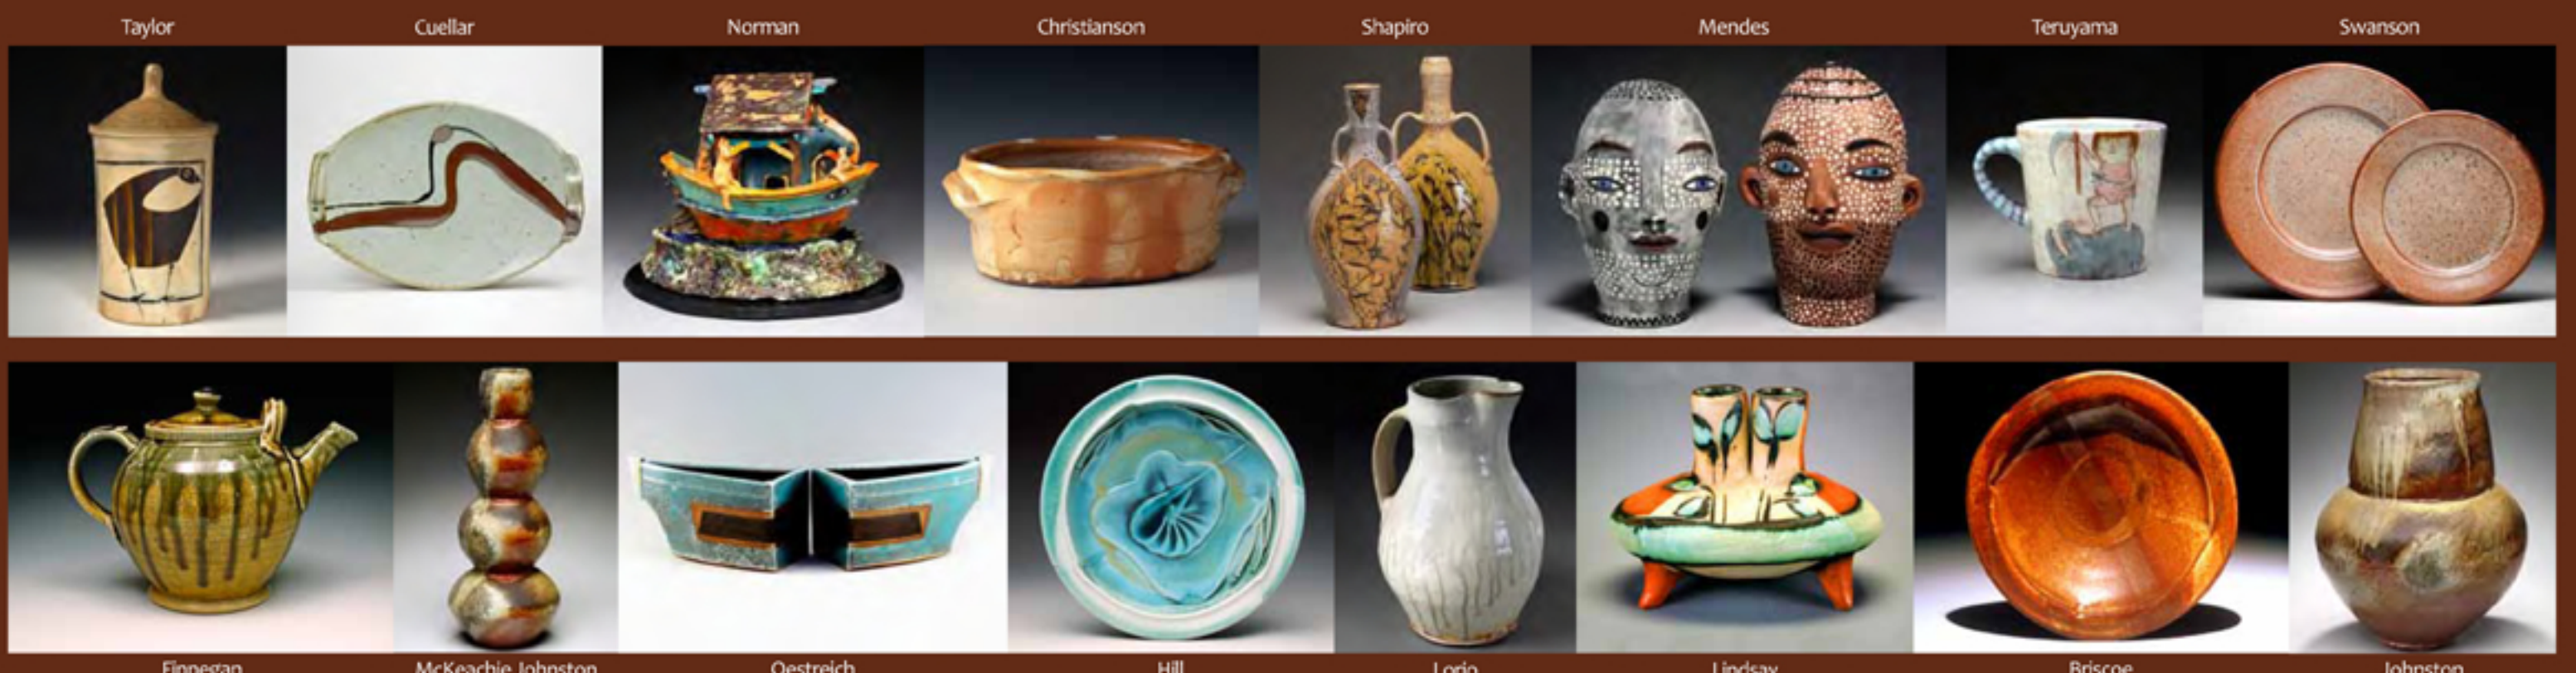

"A pot has the capacity to give and receive simultaneously. It is the perfect vehicle for hospitality." Sylvie Granatelli

"Making pots enables me to participate in an ancient human conversation through the work of my hands." Mary Barringer

"The energy of process and shaping of clay into form can create a vessel full of spirit and metaphor." George Lowe

"I want my pots to engage people where they live, and to play a part in their savoring of life." Robert Briscoe

"The experience of art should not be separated from our daily existence. A coffee cup has as much capacity for meaning as any other form of expression." Matthew Metz

"The Tour" is held annually on Mother's Day weekend. Fifty accomplished potters from around the nation (and this year, one from Scotland) will welcome visitors to seven local pottery studios. All locations are within a one-hour drive of Minneapolis and St. Paul, and each of the seven studios is a short drive from the others. Bring a friend and visit some or all of the locations in one day. Rain or shine, indoors, outdoors, and under tents, the accumulated wealth of pottery for sale at this event will make for memorable connections between the makers, users, and collectors of handmade pots. Visit our website: minnesotapotters.com to learn more about the event and the potters, find lodging information, view a slide show, and peruse the links to related websites. As a way of saying "Thank you" for the continuing support we experience with this event, a portion of the proceeds each year are donated to regional art and educational projects.
